POSITIVE BANK ACTION

Bank patrons in the 12 federal reserve cities who saw most of their institutions open for business Monday morning felt better. Their good feeling was duplicated Tuesday morning when most of the banks in 250 cities with recognized clearing house associations showed themselves ready to serve once more. By the end of the week, the reopening process will have been carried through down to most of the town and village banks in the United States.

It is positive action. For the first time since the depression started, people know exactly what to expect from their banks. They know where they stand, where the government stands. There is no mystery, no suspicion of secret juggling that may fall and precipitate a bank disaster. Certainty has taken the place of uncertainty.

To be sure, certainty does not mean happiness in every case. As the people were warned and as they quickly realized, some banks will not open. They are the wreckage of the bank disaster—institutional fragments that escaped their fate up to this time. In proportion to the whole number of banks, they are not important. Their unfortunate depositors will be served better in the long run by a general return of confidence than they would have been by an indefinite continuance of the save-the-banks-and-you-save-all policy. Some weren't worth saving.

Every effort has been made to inform the people that the physical work of passing on the condition of all the banks in the United States is so great that some sound banks will not be given permission to reopen during the early part of the reopening period. Undoubtedly, there will be misunderstanding on this point, but it can only be repeated in the hope of spreading realization of the impossibility of handling the entire banking situation in the space of a few days.

Conditions still are far from satisfactory. Perhaps a good slogan to adopt during the coming days would be: "Cheer Up! Remember how black things looked a week ago this time?"

REVITALIZATION

Few Americans who heard President Roosevelt's voice on the radio Sunday night or who read his address in their Monday newspapers escaped an impression that they had been privileged to witness the creation of a master to meet a crisis. The Republican party tried to prove that Herbert Hoover was the proper master, but his successor's extraordinary grip on popular fancy proves his superiority under the circumstances.

That does not imply that President Roosevelt's superiority should have been evident to those who were opposed to his election. Neither does it prove that Herbert Hoover was not master of the crisis at one time. It does prove that Mr. Hoover's day of usefulness, apparently, was ended when he lost his grip on the people's confidence; that Mr. Roosevelt's usefulness was created when he proved by the vigor of his leadership that he was worthy of confidence.

There has been a wonderfully important process in operation whose details scarcely can be grasped, even in outline, from so short a distance. That vast collection of forces lumped conveniently under the descriptive title, psychological factors, has been exerting a tremendous influence. A nation of discouraged people waiting fearfully for the next blow has been revitalized. It is moving forth to meet its difficulties and beat them to the first blow. Out of its helplessness was created President Roosevelt's opportunity to become a popular leader. Out of his demonstrated ability to take the opportunity is growing a new spirit of determination.

Perhaps there is some danger of placing too much stress on this thing which has been happening. It might be safer to confine observation and reaction to the facts of what the administration has been able to do about banks and the first details of an economy program. They are the things immediately at hand—the forces which can be seen and adequately described. Yet, they are but manifestations of revitalization of the nation's spirit. It will be greatly surprising if, in the longer view of what has been happening in the first days of the Roosevelt administration, details will not be submerged in the trend of popular morale away from fearful despair to confident hope. For the present, at least, the people feel that the crisis has bred its master.

What Others Say

A PRESIDENT UNAFAID

President Roosevelt's message to the new congress fortifies the faith of the millions of American citizens in the new leadership, sustains and solidifies the confidence which his inaugural message inspired.

The request for power contained in yesterday's message is that of a man who dares, a president unafraid. A man with less resolution, less courage would have shied at asking so much—the role of dictatorship in fact.

And yet President Roosevelt is strengthened in a well grounded belief that the thing he asks is what the people want him to have. The mandate handed him at the ballot box was clearly understood and he means to accept it.

In granting him this power of a dictator to correct the evils of banking, to sort the good from the bad so that the currents of finance may flow unimpeded by old obstructions of timidity and doubt, the people imply no mistrust of congress but appear only as impatient of delay in putting the national house in order.

The people welcome this sort of leadership, call it financial dictatorship if you will. It is a benign dictatorship designed only for the emergencies of the moment, to be surrendered graciously when the hour of danger is over.

President Roosevelt, in asking for the power to open up the banks that are sound, to reorganize those that need the treatment, plainly indicates he seeks a permanent solution of our banking problem and that is the major step in preventing a recurrence of old evils.

The message, awaited with tip-toe expectancy, increases tremendously the optimism so manifestly present on every hand since the new president took over the helm of government.—Toledo Times.

Causes and Cures of Sciatica

Sciatica is an extremely painful and annoying complaint. It is common among those who work in cramped positions and are exposed to a cold and dampness. It is often confused with other ailments, such as rheumatism and arthritis.

Sciatica, as its name implies, is an affliction of the sciatic nerve. This is the largest nerve in the body, being thick as a pencil. It easily becomes inflamed.

The nerve passes down the middle of the thigh, between the deep muscles. It goes toward the knee joint where it divides into two branches. These supply all the muscles below the knee. Any inflammation of the sciatic nerve is extremely painful because such a large part of the body is supplied by it or its branches.

Inflammation of this nerve may be traced to rheumatism, diabetes, tuberculosis, and certain constitutional diseases. In many instances it may be the result of lowered resistance from overstrain, chill, exposure or injury.

The irritation may be attributed to infected teeth, gums, or nasal sinuses, or disease of the tonsils. These centers of infection give off poisons which circulate in the blood and may attack the sciatic nerve.

Sciatica may result, too, from pressure upon the nerve by a tumor or near-by diseased organ.

If you have ever suffered from sciatica you have full appreciation of the pain of this affliction. It is of a boring or shooting nature. The pain extends from the buttocks to the thigh and may even reach the heel. It usually affects one side.

The pain is worse at night and is aggravated by walking and stooping. It may be so severe as to confine its victim to bed for weeks.

Early Treatment Essential

If you suffer from such pain as I have described, consult with your physician. If it is sciatica and is recognized as such immediately, cure is possible. Bear in mind that patent medicine give temporary relief but do not cure. The cause must be determined before there can be hope for cure.

It may be necessary to have an X-ray examination of the teeth, sinuses and back. If diseased tissues are the cause, cure follows their removal.

In addition to getting rid of all sources of infection, it is important to overcome faulty habits and the lack of personal hygiene. Improper food, lack of fresh air and sunshine, constipation and indigestion, must be corrected.

Include in the diet an abundant supply of milk, fruits, vegetables and whole meal products. Drink plenty of water and avoid irritating and spicy foods. Daily bathing and cleanliness of the skin aid the body to rid itself of the poisons that may cause sciatica.

New York

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The other night I turned into that odd little cul de sac, Washington Mews, nestled so fortuitously in the shadows of Washington Square. Door lamps cast smothering blobs on the narrow sidewalks and cobble stone, giving it that achingly melancholy of a lonely Paris byway.

A night watchman moved from one doorway across my path. On a bus top sat a young man. "I'm just looking around," I ventured. He merely cleared his throat and stepped back. At the blind end, is a locked iron gate. A cat stirred out of a nap, arched its back, and then executed a friendly rub against a trouser leg.

As a cloud obscured the moon, a young couple turned in from the avenue. They walked slowly, arm in arm, their voices in soft murmur. Before one stoop they stopped, and there was about them that stillness that suggests how full two hearts can be.

Then, as though in sudden alarm, he bestowed a quick peck and shuffled off toward the exit. There was the closing of a door, a series of footfalls on a stair, and out the window drifted a voice. "Mother, I'm engaged." And, just like that, I realized that spring, at last, is here!

Walking up to a corner near the Brevoort to wait a bus, I could not help wishing that I might peep into their lives again in 20 years. Or would that be tempting Fate?

Nothing stirs me sentimentally like tender upshots of love when the world savors of April moistness. On a bus top sat a young couple, center-cornered, seemed in the grip of the same spell. His low voice was attempered with a vague terror as he whispered some sweet nothings. When we flashed under the corner glare, her eyes

New French Envoy?

Andre Lefevre de la Boulaye, who it is reported, will succeed Paul Claudel as French Ambassador to the United States, M. de la Boulaye is an intimate friend of Mr. Roosevelt and his appointment is believed to be a gesture designed to eradicate some of the bitterness which exists in America over France's debt default.

fairly shone. Somehow, I had to touch a handkerchief to my eyes and clear my throat noisily. I'm a mug that way.

Older New Yorkers who remember Attorney street, on the lower East Side, as a section where great lawyers and austere judges lived, 30 years ago, would not know it today. The fine buildings are in dark disrepair and many are deserted.

During the tedious closing days of his administration, Will Hays and I, with our wives, lunched with President and Mrs. Hoover en famille at the White House. Around the grounds was the hubbub of carpenters hurriedly erecting inaugural stands. The President had that day sent a message to Congress, met a number of delegations and posed four times, in a drizzle on the lawn, for insistent photographers. He looked the weariness he felt as he settled in his luncheon chair. "The only way," he sighed, "a President may have privacy is in praying and fishing." Incidentally, it seemed wholly American that the chief dishes were corned beef hash with poached eggs, and apple pie with cheese.

I had a glimpse of Billy B. Van turning into the Lambs the other day. For ten years now, he has isolated himself in the pine forests of New Hampshire, with only occasional quick visits to Broadway. No person better portrays the successful small-town business man. It seems a far cry from his days of black-face minstrelsy, when he used to pull out a long whisk-broom—the kind they used in the old-time barber shops—to dust off the end of his cigar. Remember?

From that outer rim of the world, Tahiti, comes news that Gouverneur Morris, the author, has at last mastered the art of public speaking. Since days of his nascent authorship, he has been consumed by oratorical ambitions. But always missed the mark. Once, as a master of ceremonies at a benefit, he was even booed. He could charm readers, but only annoyed listeners. Now, he is reputed the best public speaker in the South Seas. But maybe they are more easily pleased!

And from "down-under," comes a photo-card post-marked Sydney, Australia, from a musical comedy actress. It shows her at a seaside resort, listening, through rubber ear tubes, to the tune from an old-fashioned photograph. "Doesn't this suggest capper?" she asks. Indeed it almost set me off playing clap-net and clap-out.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Pretty Mary Kennedy breaks her engagement to the elderly but wealthy sports promoter, Buck Landers when she falls in love with his young ward, Steve Moore. Landers kidnaps Steve and threatens to frame him unless Mary marries him. Mary flirts with Landers' henchman, Bat, to gain his confidence. She learns of Steve's whereabouts and goes there alone.

In a dinky flat, Mary is confronted by two thugs who deny all knowledge of Steve. They hold her and phone Landers.

Landers arrives and orders his men out. When Landers refuses to leave, Mary shoots him, and but misses. He flees. Mary releases Steve.

Steve confesses to Mary that he is engaged, but he loves her.

"How long before you will be back?" asked Mary dreamily.

breaking faith with her—but Ellen will have to have the truth. I'm sorry, but it can't be helped."

During the balance of the ride to Brooklyn they scarcely spoke or stared except when the taxicab jounced. Her love for him was increasing, with a deeper, tenderer emotion, that had a mysterious strain of something fiercely maternal in it. His sophistication, even something of his glamour, seemed to fade, and he was but a harassed and distressed boy—a bewildered boy who was trying to act like a big man. Ah, but she would help him to develop, with her guidance and wisdom, into the wonderful man he was going to be.

When they were married she would not weight him down with cares and responsibilities; she would not make him an ordinary domestic husband, resentful of his lost freedom. She saw herself as his partner and his inspiration; in the first few years of their married life, too, so that they might dwell together as untrammelled lovers.

They arrived in Brooklyn and found her sister and children had come out for the afternoon. The housekeeper, who knew Mary well, let them in the small apartment with a pass key.

"What I want mostly right now is a bath and a shave," Steve said. Mary found her brother-in-law's razor for him, and while he shaved in the tub, she fried bacon and eggs and made coffee and toast in the tiny kitchenette. The quick recuperation of youth stimulated them both and the food brought back their buoyant energy. He helped her wash and wipe dishes and later sat on a low stool at her feet, with his head in her lap. She smoothed his thick brown hair with her hands.

"How long before you'll come back?" she asked dreamily. "They wanted me to spend a month—but I'll shake loose inside of two weeks, easily."

But if he was to leave her immediately, this was no time for dreaming; she had to be practical. She wrote down her sister's telephone number and address, on a piece of paper, which he put in his billfold. In turn, he scribbled the Catskill address of the Calverts. In case of emergency they knew how to reach each other. Mary would either stay with her sister while Steve was gone, or keep in close touch. "They would write each other every day. Oh, positively!"

"But must you go tonight, Steve darling?" she asked regretfully. "I took her hand and pressed it to his lips. "The quicker I go, the sooner I can come back. Look here, Mary—I can just pop over to the rooming house and get my grips and grab a train for us there tonight. I can phone out to the house from the station, and they'll send a car in for me. You see, darling, I'll be killing two birds with one stone. I'll be squaring things with Ellen, and making plans for our future at the same time. You know, darling, I got to do a lot of planning to make everything clear and straight, and happy for us."

"Steve..." Her voice fluttered a little. "Nothing possible could come up to interfere, could it?"

Tears misted her eyes. He squeezed her hands until they hurt; his face grew suddenly serious and his voice hoarse.

"Listen to me, Mary—as long as I live—as long as I'm on this earth or any other—that long I'll always be in love with you—and only you. You're my sunlight and moonlight—you're the sky and the earth and the ocean to me." The serious look left his face and he grinned. "How's that for poetry?"

"It's adorable!" she cried, and her face was illumined.

"I want to marry you as soon as I can," he went on quickly. "I think Landers is thoroughly licked, and he won't trouble us any more. But let me get myself together first—I want to have a long talk with good old Bill Calvert, Ellen's brother. He's a boy with a level head, and I can tell him everything. You see the Calverts have a lot of connections in New York, and maybe Bill can help me get some kind of a job here. Oh, he'll do it like a shot. Just give me a little time, Mary darling, just a few weeks."

She stopped and kissed his forehead. "I could wait for you forever," she said.

"But I don't want to wait a minute longer than is necessary."

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

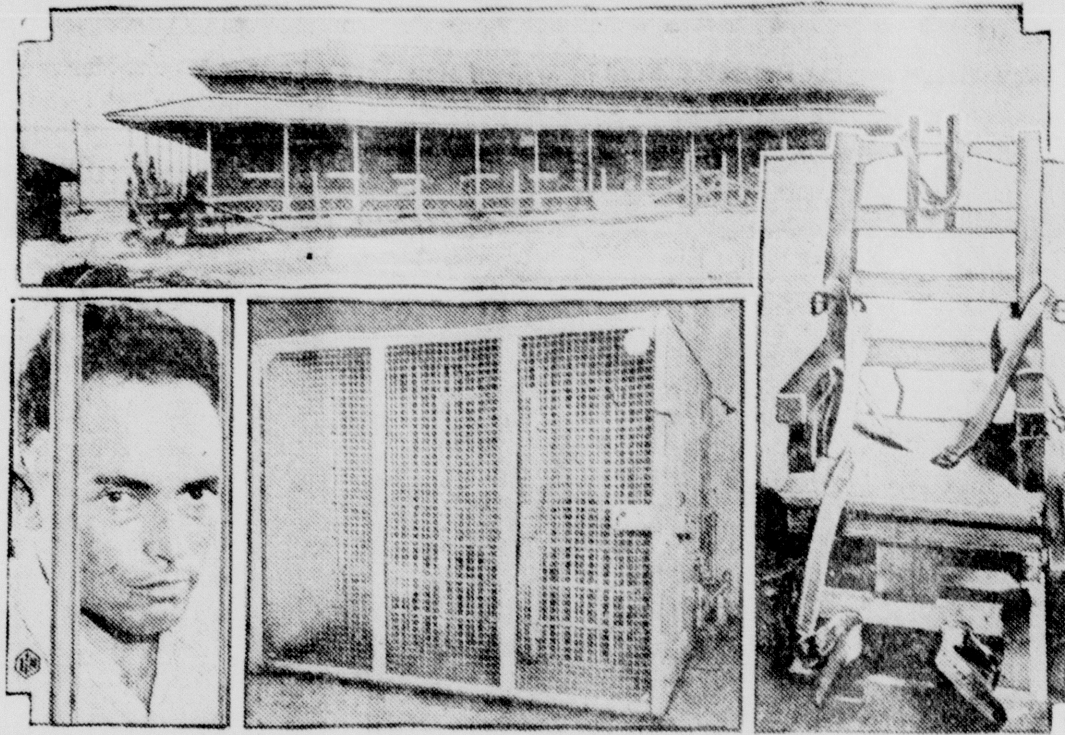

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

"I could wait for you forever," she said.

Where Zangara May Expiate Cermak Death

Chicago, where he fatally wounded when he tried to assassinate President Roosevelt, Giuseppe Zangara (left) has been indicted for first degree murder, although he is serving an 80-year sentence for shooting four others. At top is the death house of the State Penitentiary at Raiford, Fla., where Zangara is held. Center, in lower photo, is the death cell, and at right the electric chair, in which the State of Florida disposes of its condemned murderers.

Court News

John Liberatore of Wellsville has filed a suit for divorce in common pleas court against his wife, Lena Liberatore, 262 Ridgeway ave., East Liverpool, charging her with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The couple was married at East Liverpool in 1921, and have two children. The plaintiff seeks custody of a minor son upon final hearing of the case.

Doris S. McPhail has been granted a divorce from her husband, Robert I. McPhail, gross neglect of duty being the ground of action. The decree was obtained upon payment of costs, and the court has restored the custody to her maiden name, Doris Shoop.

Joseph Lawton has been appointed trustee in trust for bonds issued by East Liverpool lodge No. 379, Odd Fellows, succeeding Harry T. Hall, who died Feb. 1, 1930.

An application for this appointment was filed with Judge W. F. Lones by Atty. Ben L. Bennett. It was made known to the court that in the bond trust agreement no provision had been incorporated for the appointment or selection of a successor to Mr. Hall. The court approved the application immediately upon its presentation.

The Home Savings & Loan Co., has filed suit here against William Hinton and others, 316 West State st., Salem, to recover a claim of $3,114. The defendants negotiated a loan from the plaintiff of $2,870 March 29, 1929.

In the damage action filed by E. H. Sullivan against John Pascola and others, wherein an injunction has also been sought, Judge W. F. Lones has granted leave to the defendants to file an answer at once.

Leave has been granted the defendants to file an answer to the petition on or before March 23 in the case of the First National bank of Salem against Stephen C. Jessup Pattern Works and others.

An action in partition, with waivers signed by all defendants, has been filed in common pleas court in behalf of Edwin C. Fowler against W. Smith Fowler, Jr., and seven other heirs. The petition seeks partition of lot 4317 Thompson addition, East Liverpool.

Three-Act Comedy Planned As Play for Lisbon Seniors

LISBON, March 14—The Senior play for this year will be the three act comedy "Adam and Eve".

Tryouts for roles were held recently but Mr. Scoutten has not announced his cast.

Rehearsals are to begin at once in preparation for the presentation sometime during the first of May.

On Friday the 8A class of the Junior High had charge of the entertainment at the Lincoln building. The program was given as follows:

Song, school; reading, Virginia Muntean; reading, Martha Allison; music, Billy Green; recitation, Evelyn Brooks; recitation, Dora Burrell; duet, Grace Hagerly-June Lewis; reading, Marguerite Warwick; question box, Russell Leinz, surprise number.

Girls Plan Basketball

The senior girls who played varsity basketball this season have organized a basketball team. They have chosen Miss Viola Magee as faculty sponsor. The team will be nearly the same as the team which participated in varsity ball. This is something new in the extra high school curriculum and it will probably be a permanent part of the school from now on as it is doubtful whether there will be girls' varsity next year.

They expect to schedule games with girls' teams from other schools in the county. These games will be played in the high school gym. The members of the squad are: Lois Armstrong, Arlene Brinker, Ethel Wolfe, Helen Stacey, Mary Roller, Mary James, Dorothy Felton, Alma Frankford.

Five and the H-Y battling for the school championship.

Between the second and third games the final round in the 21 tourney will be played off with Dolores Drake and Helen Stacey playing Charles Pike and Charles Springer for the title.

The head-liner of the evening will probably bring the Toronto High school faculty against our own faculty. With Bkle leading the locals, Toronto should have its hands full.

Wednesday afternoon the student body heard a half hour program of music presented by Miss Camille Firestone who was accompanied by Leroy Kessler.

Miss Firestone came to Lisbon a short time ago from Cleveland. She has also studied with noted artists in New York.

Before each selection Miss Firestone gave a short explanation of it. The first piece was Variations on a theme by Corelli, composed by Kreiser. This composition provided opportunity for short but brilliant exhibition of the possibilities of the violin. Her next selection, Midnight Bells, a lovely waltz taken from the Opera Ball, a German comic opera, composed by Huebner.

The student council held its weekly meeting Tuesday morning. Class basketball and volley ball were discussed. A suggestion was submitted that the minutes of every meeting be posted on the bulletin board to keep the student body in touch with the council's activities.

The Freshmen have had their first encounter with Shakespearean plays this last week. They are studying Julius Caesar. To create enthusiasm among the pupils the class has constructed a miniature stage to represent that period. Miss Dorothy Cameron is the new English 1 instructor this year.

The Blue Grass Region, Kentucky, celebrated for its thoroughbred horses and fine Burley tobacco

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please!"

What a wealth of character and mildness in every Lucky!

You can taste the fine tobacco flavor in every Lucky...the rich, delicious goodness of the finest, most carefully selected tobaccos—the "Cream of the Crop"—each golden-brown leaf carefully selected for ripeness and tenderness. That gives Character!

And then—to impart true mellow-mildness to these fine tobaccos, they are given the benefit of the exclusive Lucky Strike purifying process—"It's toasted"—the process that makes fine tobaccos truly mild.

For these two reasons—Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

Personal Workers League Hears Talk By George Dressel

"What May We Do as Laymen for Preparing the Way of Jesus Christ" was the theme of a talk given by George Dressel, teacher of the Unity Bible class of the Methodist Episcopal church at a meeting of the Men's Personal Workers League Sunday afternoon at the rooms South Broadway.

The speaker traced through Bible history how God prepared the way for Jesus Christ from the Garden of Eden to John the Baptist, who was sent to prepare the way for Christ.

Dressel gave five ways that persons might help to prepare Christ's way today.

"Take time to read the Bible daily. We always have time for the things that we want to do," he said. "Pray—Talk to God all along the way. Live through the week as we talk on Sunday."

"Watch your ears, tongue and temper. Are you using the one talent of your life as God intended you should? When a man quits work as a Christian he begins to drift with the world. A church is judged by its worst members. If every man and woman in the church would live right the rest of the world could not be kept from the church."

L. H. Hirst sang a solo, accompanied by L. C. Loschly.

Banking Operations Normal at Columbus

COLUMBUS, March 14.—Columbus banks, which opened for unrestricted business today, reported operations were about normal, and that while many customers were making withdrawals, others were balancing the scales by making deposits. Bankers generally believed that these normal conditions would obtain henceforth.

Department stores reported business had picked up to a great extent, and in one instance a store put an extra force of clerks to work to handle the increasing numbers of customers. One store manager said "there is a different feeling in the air and we expect a big business later in the day."

Newspaper advertising also reflected the upturn. Advertising increased some 25 per cent over the same day a week ago.

Ex-Mayor Walker May Soon Be Ex-Husband

Divorce Suit, Charging Desertion, Filed by Wife of New York's Former Mayor, Marks End of Twenty-One-Year Marital Voyage.

Charging that he deserted her in 1928 and has persistently refused to return to her, Mrs. James J. Walker, wife of the former Mayor of New York, recently filed suit for divorce in Dade County Circuit Court, at Miami, Fla., thus answering the musical query propounded by Walker, "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May," many years ago when he had a flair for song-writing. The Walkers were married in 1912, soon after Walker was called to the bar as a promising young lawyer. His wife, the former Janet Allen, of Clinton, Ia., was acting in vaudeville when she met "Jimmy," and she is said to have been the inspiration for his famous song. The Walkers were believed to be an ideally married couple until 1928, when Jimmy was at the peak of his political career and social popularity. Then it was noted they had drifted apart. Walker no longer lived under the same roof with his wife, nor did she accompany him on any of his frequent trips abroad. However, during the Seabury investigation when her husband was under fire, Mrs. Walker stood loyally by him, even when Betty Compton, Broadway showgirl, achieved enormous publicity as the "Unnamed Person" in his life. After Walker's resignation as Mayor, he went to Europe on the same ship as Miss Compton and her mother. Since then they have been seen frequently in each other's company at various French resorts. Walker, who is writing a book of reminiscences abroad, is reported as having declared he will not contest his wife's action.

Funeral of Martyred Mayor

Drawn by a team of artillery horses, the gun caisson bearing the flag-draped casket of Mayor Anton J. Cermal, Chicago's martyred executive, is shown as it was borne through the city he ruled to his last resting place. Thousands of mourners thronged the streets in a last tribute to the man who won the admiration of the entire nation.

Borah Asks Senate
To Cut Allowances
For Transportation

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 14.—To Senator William E. Borah of Idaho —who declined a raise of $2,500 a year in pay until his constituents approved by re-electing him—now is the time for all good senators to come to the financial aid of their country.
For that reason, he intends to ask the senate either to cut out entirely or reduce sharply the allowance of 20 cents per mile paid to members of congress for coming to Washington to earn the $9,000 a year each gets under the economy bill.
Borah will ask today or tomorrow that the senate reconsider its approval yesterday of a house resolution carrying approximately $200,000 for mileage payments to members.

Borah was absent when the senate approved the measure and when he heard of it, sent to the vice president's desk notice that he would ask reconsideration. To newspapermen he only smiled in answer to questions, but indicated he wanted to eliminate the funds or cut them drastically.

The railroad fare averages around 3 cents a mile, but in 1932, the 56 senators were paid $46,329 for traveling from their homes to Washington—some of them drawing mileage without leaving the capital.
House payments ran around three times that figure.

Halt Cock Fight

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 14.—
After of years had broken up a cock fight at which several prominent Portsmouth and Ironton business men were said to have been spectators, Emil Reichendall, owner of the clubhouse at which the event was held, said an amusement tax on the fight had been collected by the internal revenue department.

Officers arrested five other men and seized fighting cocks valued at $2,000.

CALIFORNIA, Pa. — The three
"R's" still are popular. A poll of 1,400 teachers attending demonstration courses at California State Teachers College here showed most of them were interested in "reading,
"riting and "rithmetic."

TOPEKA, Kan.—Funerals cost too much already, the Kansas Senate decided, so a bill intended to raise the standards of the undertaking profession by increasing educational qualifications for embalmers was voted down.

TOKIO — United States is current best market for Japanese lacquer wares. Out of total exports of 1-60,000 yen for 1932 over 252,000 yen went to the States. Lacquer once was used exclusively for utensils and buildings, but recently it is largely used for automobiles, airplanes, submarine cables and other products.

Today's Pattern

CHIC JUMPER FROCK
PATTERN 2533

Smarter of all and terribly practical for all-day wear is the popular jumper frock. The model sketched today merits much attention. The jumper has simple chic evening with perky buttons for trim while the house is most adorable with its close-to-the-neck collar and important puff sleeves.
New wool or novelty cotton, contrasted with organdie, dimity, etc., or contrast would be ideal.
Pattern 2533 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 2 5-8 yards 54 inch fabric and 1 7-8 yards 10 in. contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.
Send for the Anne Adams Fashion Book. It contains 32 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for every sewing need, and shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical, and easy to make. There are models or the larger figure, and pages of delightful junior and kiddie styles.
"Gaily Huguette" and accessory patterns, too.

Carey Sees Strengthened Brooklyn Nine As Real Title Threat

PLAYERS ADDED TO AID TEAM IN NATIONAL FIGHT

Joe Judge at First Base To Replace Injured Del Bissonette

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the process of reconstruction under Maximilian Carey, the Brooklyn Dodgers disposed of one of their novel institutions, Babe Herman, and subsequently advanced a notch in the National league standing to third place.

They have now discarded the most famous of all their landmarks, Arthur (Dizzy) Vance, and already have won the claim of their leader to being 25 per cent stronger for the 1933 pennant hunt.

For the first time in ten seasons, the Brooklyn pitching staff is not being built around Vance, who ruled for years as the fireball king of the National league. Now past 40, Vance's holdout demands have been turned over to the Cardinals while Manager Carey devotes much of his attention to a trio of pitching additions. Ray Benge from the Phillies, Walter Beck who won 37 games for Memphis last year, and Owen Carroll, one-time ace of the college hurlers at Holy Cross.

None of this trio will make the fans of Flatbush forget the great dazzer but they should combine to give the club more effectiveness in the box than it had last season.

Van Mungo, the young fastball star who won 13 games last year, Watson (Lefty) Clark, Hollis Thurston and Freddy Heimach will round out the starting staff. The daddy of all big league pitchers, 47-year-old John P. Quinn, will again shoulder the principal burden.

Joe Judge at First Base To Replace Injured Del Bissonette

Outside the box, speed is not among Dodge assets, but Carey has finally obtained the insurance he needed by acquiring Joe Judge from Washington to play first, if Del Bissonette fails to recover completely from his leg injury. Bissonette's batting eye appears as keen as ever but it is doubtful if his under-pitch can stand the strain of a full season.

Of the two principal holdouts, third baseman Joe Stripp seems more essential to the success of Dodge operations than the round slugger, Hack Wilson. Stripp is needed to round out an infield including Captain Glenn Wright at short and Tony Cuccinello at second base. If and when he signs, Wilson will have to tangle with Johnny Frederick for the job in right field, flanking Danny Taylor in center and Frank O'Doul, the league's batting champion, in left.

For reserve duty, there is "Jake" Flowers, with Clyde Sukeforth and the veteran Val Pletnick assisting Tampa Al Lopez behind the bat.

"After watching the players in training I am sure I have made a 25 per cent improvement," Carey told the Associated Press.

TRACK, FOOTBALL WORKOUTS DRAW 100 CANDIDATES

Opening Sessions Held In School Gym; Big Ten Abandons Track

More than 100 Salem High football and track candidates, seeking places on varsity teams under Coach Floyd W. Stone, reported for opening indoor practices held in the two sports at the school gymnasium Monday afternoon.

Largest In History

It is believed by school officials to have been the largest assemblage of talent ever gathered together here for a single athletic practice. Yesterday's session was concerned mainly with the outlining of plans by Coach Stone for the spring training program, both in football and in track. Daily rehearsals will be held in the school gym with practices being transferred to Reilly athletic stadium as soon as the weather permits.

Drop Big Ten Meet

Coach Stone and Principal Wilbur J. Springer last night attended the regular business gathering of the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten league at Wooster where a decision was reached by member schools to abandon the league's annual track and field meet this year.

Only two schools, Salem and Alliance, signified intentions of participating in track and field this season. A dual meet between these two rivals may be arranged. Springer, president of the Big Ten, presided, among the topics of discussion being an open forum conference on the Dickinson scoring system which adjudged Alliance High as champion in the 1933 basketball race.

The basketball trophy cup, emblematic of the cage title, was awarded to Coach Leland Whitacre of Alliance by Coach Johnnie Price of Barberton. Barberton and Alliance shared the championship last year.

FESLER GIVEN HARVARD POST

Former Ohio State Star To Coach Basketball; Also On Grid Staff

(By Associated Press) CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 14—Harvard's varsity basketball team next year will learn its tactics from Wesley Fesler, one of the greatest all-around athletes ever developed at Ohio State University.

Fesler, who won all-America football honors in 1929 and 1930, was named to succeed Ed Wachter as head cage coach and to act as assistant backfield coach on Eddie Casey's varsity football staff.

Wachter coached Harvard basketball teams for ten years, the last six of which saw the crimson defeated each time they engaged Yale's quintet.

Fesler, who played guard on the Ohio State team, won all Big-Ten recognition. He also was a member of the Ohio State baseball team.

He will report at Harvard next September.

Fight Results

BOSTON — Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., outpointed Norman Conrad, Wilton, N. H., (10).

PHILADELPHIA—Unknown Winston, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Salvatore Ruggieri, (10).

WALKER, Atlanta, Ga., stopped Meyer (K. O.), Christner, Akron, O., (4).

Guido Conte, Chicago, knocked out Mike Loughran, Philadelphia, (3).

PITTSBURGH — Tommy Paul, Buffalo, N. Y., outpointed Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, (10); Battling Gitzzy, Donora, Pa., outpointed Eddie Zivie, Lawrenceville, Pa., (10); Carl Montebana, Bradock, Pa., stopped Paul Pironne, Cleveland, (6).

Wrestling Results

CAMDEN, N. J.—John Pesek, 290, Nebraska, threw Sam Jennings, 230, Oklahoma, two falls, 26:19, 9:10.

Frank Judson, Harvard, threw Charles Atlas, Greece, 17:02. Fred Grubmier, Iowa, drew Emil Dusek, Nebraska.

MIAMI—It may be costing Hack Wilson $24 a day to work out with the Brooklyn Dodgers but the round slugger is still hanging around the Dodgers camp, hoping to reach a financial agreement with the club officials.

Yesterday he sat on the bench as Danny Taylor stole his home run act, hitting a circuit drive in the sixth.

LOS ANGELES—The sleepless, jittery Chicago Cubs today faced the likewise New York Giants for the last time of the spring training season. Tomorrow they will play the Chicago White Sox in the first of a two-game "city" series.

PHILADELPHIA—A vacant factory building is being converted into a shelter for homeless boys of Philadelphia. The building will contain a gymnasium, dormitory and classrooms under the charge of an instructor.

PLYMOUTH, Ind.—A two-month-old lamb born on the William Furry farm lived only 30 hours. It is being mounted by high school students under supervision of the biology instructor. The freak lamb ate with both mouths.

Playing—But Still a Holdout

Although he is still at odds with the management on the question of salary, Babe Ruth, New York Yankees' mighty slugger, is here shown as he turned out for his first training session of the season in his old uniform at St. Petersburg, Fla. With the Bam is Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yanks, who is confident that Babe will alight that Hancock on the well-known dotted line before the season opens.

From Southern Camps

(By Associated Press) BRADENTON, Fla. — "Dizzy" Vance, pitcher, and Frankie Frisch, infielder, were the only absenteees as the St. Louis Cardinals swung into full spring training action at their camp here today.

WEST PALM BEACH—The St. Louis Browns were only two players short of their wartime strength when they launched their full-squad training today.

Rick Ferrell and Carl Reynolds were the two who had failed to sign for 1933.

NEW ORLEANS — Manager Roger Peckinpaugh looks for a "closer race" in the American league this year than last and regards his Cleveland Indians as the most improved team in the loop.

The Indians' improvement, he said, will be most noticeable in catching and the infield while his crew of young pitchers should show the results of Major league experience previously lacking.

SAN ANTONIO—Marvin Owen, Pete Fox, Hank Greenberg and Frank Reiber, all recruits, will be used in the game between the Detroit Tigers and University of Texas at Austin Friday Manager Bucky Harris has announced.

OAKLAND — Pittsburgh's National league prates and the Oakland club of the Pacific coast league resume hostilities here today in an exhibition game.

Steve Scaconie, Bill Swift, and Charley Wood were named by the Pittsburgh management to take PASADENA—The three boys from Philadelphia, Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes are looking forward to working on Chicago Cub pitching when the White Sox and the National league champions meet tomorrow and Thursday.

Angling for Prize Contract

While Babe Ruth, King of Clout and Sultan of Swat of the New York Yankees, is taking his time about putting his John Hancock on a 1933 baseball contract, owing to a difference of opinion as to salary, he finds recreation in Florida waters by playing havoc among the fish. He is here shown (left) with Billy De Beck, noted comic artist, as he looked over the kingfish situation at St. Petersburg, where the Yanks are in Spring training.

TAXIS TRIUMPH OVER WINONA IN CLASS B CLASH

Methodists Upset Pottery In Other Close League Game Monday

Withstanding a brilliant fourth-period rally by Winona I. G. A. basketballers, 901 Taxi tossers defeated the first half champs in a thrilling Class B league fray at the Memorial gym Monday night.

The score was 24-23, the Taxes being held without a point in the final session while Winona tallied 11, coming within one of forcing the clash into overtime.

Methodists were too much for the Salem China company, winning a 32-24 decision in the other Class B tilt last night.

Knitted as Congress Acted

While the newly-convened Congress was passing the Emergency Bank Bill, which conferred autocratic powers on the President in dealing with the financial crisis, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, "First Lady" of the land, sat in the Presidential box in the House, calmly knitting. With Mrs. Roosevelt above are Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., wife of the Federal Farm Board head, and Nancy Cook. In rear is James Roosevelt, son of the President.

ASKS FOR BEER BANKS ARE OPENING PLINY OF NEWS

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FOR one day, plenty of news. President Roosevelt demands beer "at once." And since he orders it you will get it.

Banks are open all over the country, scores in New York city. Savings banks are open, and yesterday people were pouring money into them, and also increasing deposits in other banks.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT talked to the people Sunday night about banking, talked admirably and simply without affectation. No effort at oratorical effect. He told the people that he was going to tell them about banking and talked so that a child of 12 might understand.

New Federal Reserve money is coming out, hundreds of millions of it. A sample $10 bill lies before the writer. You might like a description of it. On one side is a picture of Alexander Hamilton, on the other the United States treasury. On the front, above Hamilton's picture is written "national currency," below that, "secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasury of United States of America." Under that, in smaller type, "or by like deposits of other securities."

The statement is signed "W. H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury of the United States." A few weeks ago Mr. Woodin did not think that he would be signing a new kind of United States money so soon.

THE NAME of the Federal Reserve bank appears on the left of Hamilton, with a statement that it "will pay to the bearer on demand $10."

You will like this new money, especially you get enough of it. It will buy $10 worth of anything, anywhere on earth, and a good deal more than $10 worth of other currencies, including the British.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT makes a brief, emphatic demand for beer "and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution." The President emphasizes the importance of revenue to balance the budget. One hundred and twenty-five million dollars is expected from beer.

The return will be much greater if the law facilitates the selling of beer. It will be much less otherwise.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT selects Jesse I. Straus of New York as ambassador to Paris. No better man could be chosen.

The French will meet, in Mr. Straus, an American business man who understands this country and its opportunities, and one for a change who does not go abroad to tell other countries how much greater they are than the United States.

They will meet in Mr. Straus one who understands distribution, which is the greatest problem of the day.

Mr. Straus is one of three sons of the late Isidor and Ida Straus, who lost their lives on the Titanic, a nephew of Oscar Straus, who was United States ambassador to Turkey and a member of the cabinet of Theodore Roosevelt.

THE FLAG of the German Republic has been pulled down, and on all public buildings the old flag of the German empire now floats beside the Hitler Nazi flag.

The swastika, emblem adopted by Hitler for his flag, is perhaps the most ancient and universally used of ornamental forms on both hemispheres. It looks something like a Fourth of July pinwheel and is supposed to have represented the sun originally.

IN VATICAN CITY, Pope Pius sees a new war threatening civilization.

tion, "a war on human society, on religion, and on God himself."

Addressing the consistory of cardinals, the pope painted a gloomy picture of the "critical international situation," predicting a disaster "moral, intellectual and spiritual, inevitably for nations wherever the church is combated."

This appears to refer particularly to Spain, Mexico, Russia and Germany. In the last country, Hitler, although himself a professing Catholic, has suppressed Catholic societies and newspapers, and overthrown completely the "Centrist" party, through which Catholics had practical control of the Reichstag.

In Spain the new republic deprives the Catholic church of all share in the education of children, and is at work building a gigantic new "university city."

dent Roosevelt last week, already is circulating, adding its impetus to business revival. They are in appearance almost identical with Federal Reserve banknotes which have been a main source of the nation's currency for years.

The clearing of checks probably will be on a countrywide basis before the end of the week. Approximately 90 percent of American business is done by check. And clearing houses everywhere were prepared today to expedite this work.

In New York City, through which much of the country's commercial credits pass, the clearing of checks between banks in the Federal Reserve cities was resumed yesterday.

The reopening date of the stock exchange and of various commodity exchanges which take their cue from it, has not been set, but it is expected to be soon.

Checks on banks in 250 clearing house cities were being cleared today, and tomorrow the clearing of checks will be on a nationwide basis.

Japanese Patriot

Mitsuru Toyama, head of the famed Black Dragon Society and a saint among patriots of Japan, who is regarded as one of the most influential laymen in Nippon. Toyama has been identified with more patriotic movements than any other civilian. He recently addressed a gigantic mass meeting in Tokyo, protesting the attitude of the League of Nations towards Japan.

THEATER Attractions

THE screen's grand old patriarch is starring in his latest production today at the State theater, surrounded by a cast that would suit a king, which is the role he portrays—George Arliss in "The King's Vacation."

A Fine Cast

Besides Arliss there are Dick Powell, the very likeable lad from Pittsburgh who was seen in "Blond Event," Patricia Ellis, one of the 1932 Wampas Baby stars, Dudley Digges and O. P. Heggie, two mighty fine actors who are no longer young. Marjorie Gateson, who carries an important role, Mrs. Florence Arliss (Mrs. Arliss has appeared in most of her husband's films) and Vernon Steele.

This film is the happy combination of the light comedy of "The Millionaire" and the heavier drama of "Desire," two of the star's most popular films.

Magnificent sets were constructed for the earlier sequences where scenes of the palace and grounds are shown.

Arliss Enacts King Role

The story of this interesting film tells of a man who gave up his wife and child, his happiness, in fact, when called unexpectedly to his country's throne and who, after eighteen years of pomp and splendor, leaves his throne and queen consort to return to the scenes of his earlier happiness.

A great many changes have taken place—Helen, his first wife, has moved into a grand estate and he finds himself in the very atmosphere he has so hoped to escape—his daughter, a young woman now, is in love with a mechanic—Helen begs Phillip (Arliss) to break up the match but he instead sympathizes with the pair and encourages it—Helen is perfectly willing to remarry the king because of his rank. She no longer is satisfied with the simple joys and pleasures they used to cherish.

Phillip accidentally meets Wilhelmina, the queen who has been so very understanding of his troubles during the years and finds she is located in the simple surroundings for which he longs.

The throne is once more a thing of the past—Phillip has found his happiness—with Wilhelmina.
